RE: Delete, Delete, Delete

Dear Mr. Carr:

I absolutely oppose removing federal rules that establish restrictions on ownership of broadcast television and radio. The billionaire class already owns and controls too much of our media outlets. We need more protection to assure that a diversity of opinions is heard in our nation. Eliminating rules that prevent monopoly control over our media would be disastrous to our democratic system.

Freedom of speech is critical to our representative democracy. In our current economy and structure of broadcast media, extremely large firms could control an even greater percentage of the programming and views aired. Our democracy needs a vital diversity of views that will be squelched if you eliminate the rules that assure a larger range of ownership of broadcast media.

In fact, I would encourage the FCC to establish new rules that govern the ownership of social media broadcast outlets. We need diversity to assure the best interests of our nation are heard, now and into the future.

Sincerely

F. Edward Geiger III
